

Guidelines for Contributors

An article submitted to Directions: Journal of Educational Studies is first read by the chief editor. If found publishable, it is sent to two reviewers. Their reports, together with suggestions from the editors, are sent to the author, who is requested to revise the article within a period of six weeks. Please note that the chief editor might request an author to revise the article before it is considered suitable to send to reviewers.

Submission

Please send two hard copies, double-spaced on one side of A4 paper, and/or an electronic version. The author's name and affiliation should be on a separate page, to maintain anonymity for the reviewer.

Length

Articles should not normally exceed 3,000 words. Please include an abstract of 100-200 words.

Style

Authors should write for an educated, but not necessarily specialist, readership. Footnotes and endnotes should be avoided, and tables and figures kept to a minimum. Authors should consult an issue of Directions on general matters of style e.g. headings, capitalisation, paragraphing.

Referencing

Authors should make sure the references are complete and accurate.

Citations in the text should read thus: Chang (2002)

(Peni 2000:35-8; Atalifo 1999:56-9)

All works cited in the text should be listed alphabetically in a References section on a separate page. Please use the USP referencing style. (See Three Rs for Academic Success by R.R. Thaman and Frances Pene, published by the Institute of Education, USP.)
